Dear Sir/Madam,
Greetings!

The Department of Higher Education sincerely thanks you for your continued guidance and valuable contributions toward revising the curriculum in alignment with the National Education Policy (NEP) mandate. Our shared goal is to create an academic framework that not only fosters critical understanding of human societies and cultures but also equips students with relevant skills for today's job market.

We are pleased to share the Final Draft Syllabus for Sociology & Anthropology, as submitted by the Subject Convener of the University. This revised curriculum aims to blend theoretical knowledge with practical, interdisciplinary, and market-oriented skills—preparing students for careers in research, development sectors, public policy, corporate social responsibility, human resources, data analysis, and beyond.

Before finalizing the document, we kindly request your expert review, comments, and suggestions—if possible—by 20th May.

Your input is vital in shaping a future-ready, socially relevant, and employment-oriented curriculum.

We deeply appreciate your continued support and collaboration.
